WE NOMINATE

Samuel DeCoster Atkins, an energetic member of the Princeton University Faculty for some two decades and chairman of a survey committee that has recently published one of the most compelling reports issued in recent years on the mounting problems facing the nation's high schools. The three-section "Atkins et al Report", sponsored by the American Philological Association and entitled "Latin in the Public Secondary Schools", is something of a rarity in scholarly circles in that it is an eminently readable, down-to-earth document which stresses the importance of considering the underdramatized three "R's" in public education—"Resources, Recruitment and Reinforcement"—rather than the traditional and more appealing "Readin', 'Ritin' and 'Rithmetic'".

While concerned with the status of Latin and its teachers in the public schools, Atkins and his associates, representing the Universities of Illinois and Wisconsin, have completed a study that in its basic aspects is as applicable to the plight of mathematics, physics and history as it is to Latin. For instance, in discussing the failure to recruit young teachers as replacements for the large number of teachers who will soon retire, the report hammers home the point first made by the Fund for the Advancement of Education: the country's high schools by 1965 must find 16 new teachers for every 10 now on the job—"the equivalent of replacing all of the secondary school teachers we now have and discovering 60 per cent in addition."

Noting that 46 per cent of the high schools in the United States give no instruction in any foreign language, Atkins, whose teaching responsibilities in the University are divided between Greek in the Department of Classics and Sanskrit in the Department of Oriental Studies, emphasizes the burdens imposed by the "normal pattern" of having teachers handle one or more subjects in addition to their specialty. The report also underscores the justifiable lament: "All public school teachers have far too much clerical, administrative and service duty piled on top of their teaching loads to leave them much leisure or energy for private reading and self-improvement."

The 45-year old Atkins, a native of Madison, N. J., and a Phi Beta Kappa member of the Princeton Class of 1931, is one of the few educators his age who has twice been called for wartime duty with the Armed Forces. From March, 1942, until June, 1946, he served as a communications specialist with the Navy and came back to the campus as a Lieutenant Commander. Some four years later, at the outbreak of the Korean War, he returned to the Pentagon, this time serving 17 months as a Commander in the Naval Reserve. A student of the late Harold H. Bender, distinguished Princeton philologist, and an assistant professor at Baylor University before he joined the Princeton Faculty, Atkins in 1956 is commencing a five-year term as the American Philological Association's delegate to the American Council of Learned Societies.

For looking to the future and helping link the functions of Learned Societies with the needs of public education; for "red-flagging" danger spots in present educational trends; for urging his fellow educators to tackle together the recruiting problems created by the teacher-shortage; he is TOWN TOPICS nominee for

JULY MAKES HEADLINES

The traditionally leisurely pace of Princeton in July was sharply interrupted this week by several major news developments of immediate and long-range significance. This week's gleanings:

● Princeton University acquired the Stanworth apartments on Bayard Lane for $1,820,000, seeking relief for its urgent housing needs. The University gave present tenants of the 154-unit garden apartments 13 months to vacate.

● Most (over 190 acres) of the "Gulick Estate" along the Princeton-Kingston, River and Herron-town Roads was sold to Carl Geiger and Heston N. Potts of New Brunswick for a reported $250,000. Mr. Geiger's Princeton Construction Co. has built Shadybrook, Overbrook and Lake Carnegie Estates.

● The Borough Housing Authority's tentative plans for 50 more units of low-cost public housing will stand or fall on a decision of the Federal Government's Public Housing Administration this Monday. The sudden speed-up results from the fact that PHA's 1937 enabling act expires next Tuesday. Princeton was given a program reservation, responded in record time with a general outline of the development, but won't know until Monday whether federal funds will be available.

● The trustees of Miss Mason's School acquired "Libbey House" (53 Bayard Lane) from the University for a reported $33,000 as a permanent home for the school.

● The tangled political picture in Princeton Township was further complicated by the announcement (anticipated here three weeks ago) that Dr. Richard H. Wood, first Democrat named to the Township Committee within memory, will sail for Karachi, Pakistan, on Wednesday, to accept an important educational position there for the next two years.

HOUSING SCENE

Things Happen. Princeton University's purchase of Stanworth (see transaction details, Page 3) will set housing matters humming soon, helping the University in an increasingly difficult position as its professors and employees are squeezed out of "Boom Princeton."

But obviously, the housing problem will be implemented by the fact that someone's got to move. New York Life Insurance is understood to have given up the first of its housing projects (Stanworth) because it was too small, yet a half dozen Stanworths wouldn't get Princeton over its present shortage.

The Gulick Deal. Sale of over 190 acres of the Gulick Estate off Princeton-Kingston Road this week suggested housing growth of still another kind. Carl Geiger, New Brunswick developer, co-purchaser with Heston Potts, New Brunswick attorney, is known to the community as the builder of three other substantial developments.

The Shultise Agency, Highland Park, was the broker in the deal which put 190 plus acres of the Gulick tract of 234 in new hands. The best guess is that Mr. Geiger will engineer plans for homes in the $30,000-up class which Shultise handled for him at Shady Brook.

The $250,000 sale was divided among one-quarter interests of Bertrand L. Gulick Jr. and his sisters, Mrs. Margaret Hall and Miss Emily Gulick, plus one-12th interests of three descendants, Bertrand L. Gulick, 3rd, Mrs. Donald Wert and John F. Gulick.

Members of the Gulick family put up a heated struggle this fall to make their property, largely conveyed in the recent deal, zoned at 3/4 acres per lot. They won their point and with public sewer and water nearby, the tract appears ready for development.

There will be complications, though. Judging by recent experience, the Township Planning Board will make any development take into account the possible north-south truck-by-pass (Rt. 206-A) and projected Kingsdale By-pass (which runs east-west in the Gulick acreage just purchased.)

may well determine whether 50 low-rent units are built in the Borough in a comparatively short time, or whether the entire program will have to be shelved—possibly for years.

The Public Housing Administration act of 1937 expires Tuesday; the Borough will hear the day before whether or not federal funds will be set aside to pay for 50 desperately needed units.

PHIA gave the end of the law, PHIA gave Princeton a program reservation, expecting to hear in six months or a year of the local position. The Housing Authority, consultants, architects, engineer's office, and others cooperated in an unprecedented way to have the primary project ready for PHA in New York.

Time will tell. The Housing Authority may have struck right on schedule or it may draw a blank. Two to three years without action would mean that everything compiled to date about need and public desire for the units must be surveyed again.

WEATHER REPORT

Then and Now. By all counts, the weather on Saturday, July 21, was the most unusual during a 24-hour period for the month that Princetonians have known in nearly four years. Statistics show that it was in particularly sharp contrast to last year, which went into the books as the hottest, the most humid and the driest July on record.

Last Saturday, better than an inch of rain fell, the maximum temperature for the day was 68 and the mean was 64—12 degrees below normal. The inch-plus of rain in that 24-hour period was more than ten times the entire recorded precipitation for July '55. The Princeton Water Company records show that during that month last summer, total rainfall was .06 inches.

Princetonians who in other years have steamed at the receipt of postcards from friends in northern New England reporting, "We're sleeping under blankets," last week could look about for those to whom they could pen the same message. But in the still-incredible July of last summer, temperatures topped 90 on 17 different days, the humidity kept pace and frayed tempers weren't far behind.

Precipitation for the current month is now well over three inches, and with five days to go, many produce the largest total since 1952's somewhat unusual 5.12 inches. If it served to level off the summer's rainfall, so that the drought-breaking eight and 12 inches, respectively, of August 1954 and '35 would not repeat the disastrous floods of those years, 1956 would indeed win a flowery crown as the best summer of the decade.

PERSONALITIES

Richard M. Sullivan, Western Way executive vice-president and treasurer of Educational Testing Service, one of the key men in the growth of ETS, has been elected president of Reed College in Portland, Oregon, one of the few privately-owned colleges on the Coast.

Stephen K. Fax, Rosedale Lane, led the happy Princetonians investors in Pinon-Sabre Uranium into Life Magazine's editorial columns last week, as the company's dare-that-paid history was recounted in a pangrytic to investment risk. Life said that $7,500-a-year Rutgers professor Fox is now worth $256,000, and Bayard Stockton 3rd, Van Dyke Road, recalled for Town Topics the early members of the group which has prospects of rich capital gains (or handsome dividends) once the rich uranium strike is brought to market; Ferdinand Roehling, Harry Renwick, David S. Lloyd Sr., James Cooper, Christopher Rodgers, James Kermey, Roger Kirkpatrick, David McCloskey (delivery boy at Cousins whose $500 investment is estimated as worth $13,000) and Henry Patton, plus Nassau Associates, the investors club.

Etienne Burdahn of The Great Road, who will again tackle one of the greatest roles in the theatre by playing the Captain's wife in "The Father" next week for the University Players.

Reevaluation of taxable real estate in the Township was slated for approval by the Committee at Wednesday night's abbreviated session (after press time.)

The steel strike has not hurt Princeton High School construction, with B. Woodhull Davis, Superintendent of Schools, reporting that all steel was on hand and progress is "right on schedule."

Stanworth Bought by University. Princeton University this week paid $1,820,000 in a move to alleviate the housing problems created by growing teaching, research and administrative staffs. The University used the sum to purchase Stanworth, 154-unit garden apartment, from the New York Life Insurance Company.

In the temporary absence of president Harold W. Doolittle, who is in Europe, announcement of the acquisition was made by Harold M. Helm, chairman of the Executive Committee of the University's board of trustees. Mr. Helm pointed out that, in view of the shortage of rental housing in the Princeton area, no changes are planned in the present tenancy of Stanworth for at least a year.

"Of course, all leases will be respected," Mr. Helm declared. "Every consideration will be given to the convenience of the residents, consistent with the intention of the purchase."

Mr. Helm further explained that the University hopes that Stanworth will eventually provide 100 additional housing units for the accommodation of full-time University personnel. Preference for the remaining units will be given to individuals and families who are, or have been, affiliated with the University in some official capacity.

"It is our conviction," Mr. Helm said, "that the essential core of the University is its faculty, associated not only in teaching and scholarship, but also by living in a physically attractive and stimulating intellectual community."

Stanworth, located on Bayard Lane in the Borough's western section, includes eight one-room apartments, 50 one-bedroom apartments, 88 apartments with two bedrooms and eight three-bedroom apartments.

Title September 1. With the change of title on or about September 1, the apartment project will be administered by the University's Real Estate Department headed by Alfred L. Test. Mr. Helm pointed out that the purchase will in no way change the tax structure of the borough since the University pays taxes on all income-producing, off-campus properties, including student and faculty residences.

The 17-acre tract on which Stanworth stands was sold to New York Life by the University in 1946. Stanworth, the insurance firm's first housing project, was built in that year and represented the first important step taken in Princeton to provide medium-priced housing for World War II veterans.

The land, which was the gift to the University of Mrs. Edgar Palmer, widow of a charter trustee and generous benefactor of the University, was owned in the 18th century by the Stockton family of Princeton. In 1877 the late Prof. William M. Sloane purchased the land and built a large stone residence, "Stanworth," on the land. The building has since been razed.

School Buys "Libbey House." Sale of "Libbey House," one of the community's older and larger 19th century homes, to Miss Mason's School by Princeton University was announced this week. The 100-pupil school for children from nursery-age through the third grade has been the tenant in the 53 Bayard Lane building for the past four years.

Founded before the last war by Miss Mary Mason, its present headmistress, the school has progressed steadily through the nursery and kindergarten ages, adding a first and second grade following its incorporation in 1952. A third grade will be offered in September for the first time.

Purchase of "Libbey House" from the University "sets to rest any uncertainty that the school will have suitable quarters to enable it to continue to provide for the younger children of the community the same excellent educational facilities and training which have been its noteworthy contribution over the years," the announcement said. Appreciation was expressed to the University for its part in making the transaction possible, and to the parents, alumni and friends of the school whose contributions saw the project through to completion.

Blackwell Smith is president of the school's board of trustees. Other members are: Trevor C. Hambling, Walter H. Johnson, George Bowers and Abbridge C. Smith, 3d.

The 53 Bayard Lane residence was built in the latter part of the last century by the late Col. William Libbey. As the Greenholm "figure 8" at whose head it stands was developed, the neighborhood was occasionally called "Libbey's Loop."

The building served as a private residence for a number of decades for Col. Libbey's family and its descendants, but in the late 1930's was rented to the University as an off-campus freshman dormitory. When the war brought scores of Navy personnel to Princeton for the University's training school, it continued in use as an apartment building. The University purchased it from the Libbey heirs in 1946, with it attended by Dr. George Gallup to obtain it for office space (rejected by the zoning board).

Township Politics Re-Sheek. Dr. Richard H. Wood was expected to resign from the Township Committee this week, because he and his family will sail Wednesday for Karachi, Pakistan, where he will serve for two years as visiting lecturer in industrial relations and management at Karachi University's Institute of Public and Business Administration.

Dr. Wood, a Princeton alumnus and former teacher at the University, will go on leave as director of Rutgers Institute of Management and Labor Relations, to take up the important post set up by Pennsylvania's Wharton School, ICA, and the Government of Pakistan.

But he leaves behind him a tangled picture in local politics. Dr. Wood was scheduled to run for re-election this fall after completing his first three-year term on the Township Committee. Instead, he joins Republicans Hugh D. Wise Jr. and Dr. John H. Wallace Jr. as the third man to leave the committee since May.

The GOP-dominated committee can name a successor for Mr. Wood at any time and one for Mayor Wallace following acceptance of his resignation after its September meeting.

The Committee can be expected to name two Republicans to the open positions, probably John S. Mount, a present GOP candidate in the fall and whoever is the new candidate for the third open position.

Township Democrats, bereft of their one successful (and highly-regarded) office holder, face a serious problem in choosing two running mates for Ansley Cole, their only remaining nominee. Current rumors suggest that John F. McCarthy Jr. may be one of the choices.

Court Action Light. The traditional summer lull hit Princeton's courts this week, as both Borough and Township had light schedules. Township Magistrate Louis R. Gerber had the earliest time of it with only one case, a dog complaint, on his docket.

In the Borough court session, Magistrate Paul R. Chacebro handled about only four dozen cases. David Dupece of 165 Birch Avenue was found guilty on both a speeding charge and driving with an expired license. He paid $15 for each violation.

In other court action, Frank Andrews Jr. of Trenton was fined $14 for a red light violation. Nathaniel Fitzgerald of Trenton, who owed a total of $45 for three offenses, failed to appear and a warrant was issued for his arrest.

Deer Victim of Car. One death that did not make the obituary column during the past week was the demise of a deer. The animal was killed by an automobile on Quaker Road Monday. V. S. Peterson, of The Great Road was unable to avoid hitting the animal, which suddenly leaped onto the road. About $50 damage was done to Mr. Peterson's car, while the deer was killed instantly. The Quaker Road accident was the only mishap in the Township last week.

UNIVERSITY PLAYERS

Choice Bill. The University Players have finally hit their stride in the current offering of three one-act plays, which run through this Saturday night. The marks of skill and imagination, a tradition of the company over the years, are present in "Three-Way Split".

The one-acters were exceptionally well chosen and performed for a balanced evening of interest and entertainment. They included interesting treatment of an amusing play, thoughtful treatment of an intense play, and delightful treatment of fine farce. Making a pretty good bill.

Journey to Trenton and Camden, one of the more famed "curtain-raiser" is usually done in a completely casual fashion. Merio Siletti's direction seemed to indicate, however, the free-hand style of the play can be treated with full stage consciousness and sense of stylization.

His idea was emphasized by the fact that Mary Gonzalez as the mother underlined the satirical aspect of the one-acter, which has always existed despite the customary casual treatment.

Munroe Wade, Ralph Williams and Kathy Kelly were very fine and amusing in a more ordinary treatment of the roles of the rest of the happy family. Robert Wren was deprived of some of the freedom of the stage manager's role by Mr. Siletti's handling. Lella Barry as the married daughter who's "been sick" arrived nicely at the point where Mr. Wilder gives a serious twist to the "happy journey".

"Moony's Kid Don't Cry" is an excellent Tennessee Williams miniature. The one-acter in some ways is superior to longer Williams plays in dramatizing the struggle for articulation and a valid life by the "below average" man. Morton Goldie's direction prevented strangulation by shortness and released the strength and feeling of the play.

Paul Schirm as Moony avoided easily attractive over-acting (or over-Brandoing). It cost him some fine passages, but the struggle for sincerity was more important.

Mr. Schirm has a powerful emotional infection in his voice, which should be used far more sparingly in a role such as this, and better counterpointed by the speeches of defiant strength. He should have been "on his feet" as much as he was on his knees. Mr.

Schirm isn't the best actor on the bill, but his potentially continues to be stunning.

Lella Barry as the plain Jane of a wife was way above expectations. Infection troubled her, too, but she has gone somewhere in a few years; it was a real performance despite the limitations.

But to cap the whole night off, the Players got a handsome performance of Sean O'Casey's "Bedtime Story", a happy substitution for the announced Saroyan. The combination of a dandy little play, Phil Miner's directional inspirations, and the talent of the principals showing at their best made quite a conclusion to the evening.

Joe Bird launched matters with a delightful episode as the bachelor caught by himself in sin. Then George Hall joined him for an even better "duet", and on it went. Ralph Williams came on for a scene with Mr. Bird which deserved every bit of the show-stopping applause, then Mary Gonzalez added a fine extra touch as the landlady.

The principals brought this little gem of a farce into such life that it didn't seem necessary to follow the nice verbal pattern, in which O'Casey can twist Yeats grandly and have it seem as normal as the rest of the very good humor.

"Bedtime Story" had loads of good touches. Happy as it was, the play also represented the awaited blending of talent, skill and imagination which makes the University Players a fine group. It's fair to hope that the company "spirit" will now spread over into the serious stuff of next week.

Though the chairs and saw-horses of "Happy Journeys" don't come to much, Jerry Ralburner again did a handsome job with the settings, particularly the Dublin beehive's flat for the last play. But go to Murray Theatre this weekend, you'll have a good time. —Continued on Page 6

Strindberg Next. "The Father" by August Strindberg will be the sixth production of the University Players' season, opening next Tuesday, July 31, and running through Saturday, August 4. Tickets may be reserved by calling 3538.
Strindberg is possibly best known for his naturalistic tragedy "Miss Julie" and the "Plays" for forthcoming production is not unlike his masterpiece. "The Father" should provide still another interesting change of pace at Murray Theatre.

"The Father" was written some sixty years ago and is supposed to represent the author's loathing of women and his bitter acceptance of life. The tragedy was presented in New York in 1912 and has since been revived at the Broadway Provincetown Playhouse and at the Cort Theatre, with Raymond Massey, Mady Christians, Mary Morris and Grace Kelly (as the Captain's daughter).
The play describes with masterful precision the manner in which the wife of a Swedish cavalry officer drives her husband to madness with taunts and subtle power. She represents the power of a woman with ruthless determination to dominate all about her.
Strindberg wrote a play of great inner power, terror and deeply sketched characters. "The being a lively action film (Vie Walt Disney) filled with adventure and chase, a treat for railroad fans, as well as a good documentary treatment of a Civil War exploit. Fess Parker and Jeff Hunter do a fine job in the top roles. Color CinemaScope. The hill also includes "Men of the Arctic" and "How to Have an Accident at Home" — both Disney shorts.

Pardners (July 29 - 31) finds Dean Martin and Jerry Lewis in a Western with all the humorous trimmings. Martin & Lewis fans should find it one of the best ever by the late lamented team. Lori Nelson, Jeff Morrow and Jackie London also join in. Technicolor and VistaVision.
The King and I (Aug. 1-7) is for everyone who liked the original Rodgers and Hammerstein musical and/or the music. The screen treatment is fabulously elaborate and colorful, with the film technique used to the fullest. Yul Brynner repeats superbly as the King of Siam and Deborah Kerr is fine as the English schoolteacher. A sumptuous sight in CinemaScope 55 and Technicolor.

BUCKS COUNTY PLAYHOUSE
"The Magnificent Yankee" by Jerome Cowan starring as Oliver Wendell Holmes continues through this Saturday at the Bucks County Playhouse in New Hope, Pa. There will be a Saturday matinee at 2.

Next on the schedule will be Jerome Gluskin, the fine comedienne, who will head the cast of a revue entitled "Sticks and Stones." The musical will open on Monday, July 30, and run for two weeks.

Miss Ginzgold arrived here from England to score a smash hit in John Murray Anderson's "Almanac" a few years back and has won a handsome reputation as one of the most delightful entertainers.

She specializes in a brand of nonsense and outlandish comedy based on acute observation of character. Miss Ginzgold is known for outrageous costumes and spirited twitting of every kind of person and subject. She has made many television appearances during her stay here.

"Sticks and Stones" arrives at New Hope after a number of successful engagements at other summer theatres, enjoying fine audience reception. In addition to Miss Ginzgold, major roles are taken by attractive singer Marti Stevens, comedienne Louise Hoff (last night at Bucks County in the "Bandwagon" revue), and dancer Erin Martin.

MUSIC CIRCUS
"The Student Prince" by Sigmond Romberg is the current tenant at the Music Circus in Lambertville, having opened Tuesday for a run of two weeks. The presentation marks the third revival of the opera by St. John Terrell at his Lawrenceville tent. Last time out, in 1952, the revival featured Jo Sullivan, who is presently singing, on Broadway in "Meet Happy Fella." Pat Michon will make her theatrical debut as Kathie in "Student Prince" and Jim Hawthorne will be Prince Carl. The show includes the Romberg favorites "Deep in My Heart," "Golden Days," "Drinking Song" and "Student Marching Song," among others.

Sealing Wax and Cabbages. There is probably no worse domestic crisis than finding yourself without English muffins for Sunday breakfast.

This observation will serve as an introduction to a short essay on Cox's Delicatessen, an establishment located, as even a Princeton newcomer can tell you, at 182 Nassau Street.

You can pick up those muffins any time on Sunday between 7:30 a.m. and 2 p.m. Weekdays, from 7:30 in the morning until 9 at night.

Cox's is really a small general store, with everything conceivable on its shelves. For other emergencies besides the muffin shortage, there are cans of pet food, baby food, breads, cakes and rolls. (There are also Bromo Seltzer and Alka-Seltzer in case you feel a certain malaise between 7:30 and 2 some Sunday.)

The variety of Cox's should not mislead you, however; the store is more than a random collection of merchandise. There's a complete line of groceries, for example, including the quality White Rose brand — try their Mint Sauce.

If you're laying in supplies against a siege of cocktail parties, there are Premier, green-ripe olive (sometimes hard to find), a refrigerator case full of various cuts of cold meat, a menagerie of cans and jars of cocktail snacks, and of course those famous peanuts.

The Cox peanuts are bought raw and roasted daily in the big machine by the window. Mr. Cox thinks these are the only fresh-roasted nuts in town, and nobody has disputed him yet.

Besides groceries, detergents and cold cuts, Cox has a large library of current magazines, and a spinning rack of pocket paperback books. New titles appear frequently, and next to the mysteries and the westerns, we saw "The Man in the Grey Flannel Suit," Burl Ives' collection of sea songs, Betty MacDonald's "Onions in the Stew" and a book on the Dead Sea Scrolls.

Younger customers may choose from the Pi-K-A-Toy assortment. These cost about 25 to 49c, and consist mostly of summer play toys, small craft projects and an occasional jumping rope.

Pink Saucepan, Urken's now has a cupboard of pink enamel saucepans, baking dishes, double boilers and percolators. Think of new baby berts from your garden, simmering colorfully in a pink saucepan.

There are also bright turquoise pieces, if you choose, and if your kitchen color scheme will allow. They all have a triple coat of enamel for durability.

Besides offering you a turquoise coffee pot, Urken's presents a kit that you can use to refinish old furniture. With it you don't need paint remover at all, and you only have to sand a little bit.

This kit will transform anything into something with a wood-grain finish. We saw it on masonite, and the end product looked quite like wood.

First you put on a ground coat. Then a second coat that you paint on, stippling it with a sponge while it's still wet.

A third coat gives you the final wood finish. You may buy the kit in eight different wood shades, like oak, platinum, maple, blond, mahogany and so on. It costs $4.95, and will do a kitchen table and two chairs.

While we're in the kitchen, let's see if you need a new mop. Urken's are Lighthouse brand, made by the blind. There are refills for the mops you have bought many times from the Princeton Lions Club. You can have an orlon wax applicator, a wet or dry mop, brushes and, shortly, a dish-mop. The store at 27 Witherspoon is now selling Di-Met, a crab grass product that you use with watering can, sprayer or hose siphon. For $3.15, you get enough for 5,000 square feet.

If summer rains and houseguests have gone through your lawn furniture, you'll be interested in replacements for canvas and plastic. Here are Carlan chair cover kits, for wooden or aluminum chairs. They come in yacht or deck chair styles, in canvas. —Continued on Page 13

OLE SWIMMIN' HOLE — '56 VERSION: Today's youngsters splash away the heat in supervised wading pools, like this one at the Harrison Street Playground. Swimming is a favorite summer activity, but baseball, archery, tennis and just plain play are all part of the Princeton summer recreation scene. Guided by a hard core of professionals, the program is staffed largely by volunteers who give many hours a week to Princeton's children. See below for further details. (Alan Richards Photo)

Topics Of The Town

"Can I Help?" Hard-working volunteers, earnest about their work (and scrupulous about showing up on time) are the muscle and sinew of Princeton's summer recreation program. Without them, the competent paid professionals would be like a head without a body.

This summer, there are about 30 of these volunteers. They teach archery, coach junior baseball players, recite poetry and show six-year-olds that it really doesn't hurt to get your face wet.

Playground supervisors are usually professionals, but this summer there is one volunteer: a grizzled old campaigner of some 14 summers. She is Jane Fink, Chestnut and Hamilton playground, and she's keeping children under eight busy and happy until she goes back to high school in September.

Once a week the story teller appears at each playground and wading pool. Prepared by two training sessions, these volunteer matrons and high school girls tell (not read stories) or recite verses to a highly-persuaded group of children whose combined attention span is about three minutes.

Three are high-school Girl Scouts working under the Scout's library aid program. They are Susan Bennett, Barbara Quarles, and Diane Terry. Grace Norton, another high-school student, is also a story-teller. Of the adult volunteers, Mrs. Dean Meyerson and Mrs. Henry Frank have both been story-tellers before, and Phyllis Britcher is herself the author of many children's tales. (She is now the owner of St. G. Nonsense).

Mrs. Seth Cruise, Mrs. E. G. Enderbee, Mrs. Paul Rappaport and Mrs. Kenneth Ritchie, formerly children's librarians, also belong to the group. They will be joined by Mrs. Fred Ferguson, present children's librarian, when she returns in August from library school.

The coach takes the place of the story-teller in other summer activities. Two or three nights a week for eight weeks, the six volunteer managers of Junior Baseball League teams show up at Brookview Field. (This is really sacrificial volunteering because games are played during the dinner hour, around 6 p.m.)

J. Wilson Conn handles the Bowers Construction team and William Evans the Matthews Construction nine. Robert Sinkler works with the Lions team and Paul Cuomo with Nassau Oil. Randy Hagadorn, Mr. Conn's assistant and Vincent Petrillo helps Mr. Cuomo. Of these free-time coaches only Mr. Sinkler is an old hand with Princeton teams. He is devoting his fourth summer to volunteer coaching.

Swimming Most Popular. Swimming is the biggest thing in the Y.M.C.A.'s Y.W.C.A. summer calendar and it takes eight volunteer swimming instructors to keep the classes afloat.

The Y says that three of its most important volunteers are the Princeton citizens who have lent their private pools. Classes use the pools of Raymond Bowers, his next-door neighbor, Nelson Deyo and Peter Putnam.

All the swimming instructors this year are mothers and the Y interprets "volunteer" loosely enough to provide baby-sitter money. Mrs. Carol Culin, Mrs. Ellen Blumenthal, Mrs. Joan Sharpless, Mrs. Natalie Adams, Mrs. Jane McGrath, Mrs. Betsy Spengle and Mrs. Ann Boldren divide up the 90 or more children registered in swimming classes. Some, like Mrs. Sharpless and Mrs. Spengle have taught swimming in summer camps; Mrs. Culin gave lessons in California.

At first, seven was the lower age limit for swimmers, but Mrs. Spengle assembled eight summer-aged five and six and volunteered to teach them how to get wet without tears. Another special class has been formed for handicapped children. Mrs. McGrath and Mrs. Peter Putnam teach the seven children enrolled in this experimental group.

Tennis lessons for 17 boys—that's the assignment Kenneth Wilson has taken on for the summer. Two assistants work with him in this Y.M.C.A. activity. One is Don Matthey, the other is Joseph Bechelder who has shifted the schedule of his own private tennis classes in order to serve the Y without pay. Archery at the Y.M.C.A. is taught by Howard Schrader.

Y.W.C.A. tennis beginners are learning to serve under Mrs. Barbara Smoyer, 1954 Red Feather singles champion who reached the finals of the Middle States tournament in Philadelphia last week.

These volunteers say they receive their pay in the achievements of the children. "What I like about these boys and girls," said one teacher, "is their enthusiasm and the way they plunge into work. I think they really appreciate what I'm trying to teach them."

Music Response Excellent. B. Franklin Bunn, chairman of the committee to present a silver ceremonial music to Princeton University this fall, has reported that response to the plan has been excellent. The music is to be presented at the Nassau Hall Bicentennial Convocation September 23.

Mr. Bunn stated that $2,714 has been raised from 151 contributors without any formal effort. This figure is only $886 of the $3,600 goal. Mr. Bunn expressed his hope that an additional 100 persons contribute so

Trees Grow Big Here

Six of the largest trees of their individual species in New Jersey are to be found in Princeton, according to a list of the state's largest trees compiled by Austin N. Lentz. Mr. Lentz is an extension forester at Rutgers University's College of Agriculture.

Four of Princeton's prize species are located in Marquand Park. As measured by circumference of the trunk, they are a copper beech, 15 feet, four inches; a hemlock, 11 feet, six inches; a white pine, eleven feet, seven inches; and a Norway spruce, 10 feet, nine inches.

The largest white ash, measuring 14 feet, three inches, is located on the property of Edward S. Greenbaum, 104 Mercer Street. The largest American elm, which measures 20 feet, nine inches, is on the property of George Sagen-dorph, 42 Lafayette Road.

that the area of participation will be broadened.

Meanwhile, Elia Starr and Gorham, designers of the music, reported that work is progressing according to schedule and that September delivery is assured. The music will bear the inscription: "Presented to Princeton University by the citizens of the community of Princeton in commemoration of two centuries of neighborly association, September 23, 1956."

Music in the Sky. An hour-long program of popular songs and hymns will be given Wednesday night at 8:30 on the Class of 1892 Carillon, high atop Cleveland Memorial Tower in the Princeton Graduate College. The bellmaster will be Professor Arthur L. Bigelow, who will be offering the second in a series of summer carillon recitals.

The selections will include compositions by Grieg, Handel, Haydn and Purcell. Professor Bigelow will be available in Cleveland Tower before the concert to give visitors an opportunity to examine the carillon.

The 49 bells range in size from 18 to 13,000 pounds, with the largest seven feet in diameter. The carillon has a range of over four octaves and can best be heard at a distance of 200 to 300 yards from the base of the tower. In the absence of wind, the carillon music covers half a mile without losing proper tone expression.

in the Public Library's summer program for children. "Around the World with Books," the library reported this week. Children from the fourth through the sixth grades are invited to join this reading club.

Books of all descriptions are available in the juvenile department. Summer hours for children are 10 to 5:30 daily, except Thursday and Saturday, when the hours are 10 to 1.

Library Heavily Used. The annual report of the Free Public Library shows that more than 6,100 registered borrowers of all ages borrowed some 121,500 items for home use. These include not only books but also recordings, periodicals, pamphlets, pictures and maps.

Forty percent of the new registrants were persons living in the Township. The yearly contract which the Township makes with the Borough guarantees all Township residents full library privileges without payment of an individual fee.

Obituaries

Dr. Wilhelm Bratschi, 39, of Berne, Switzerland, died there on July 5 as a result of an accident. Details of his death are not known.

Dr. Bratschi served as a resident physician at Princeton Hospital from November, 1933 until June, 1954. A native of Switzerland, he was a graduate of the University of Berne in the class of 1940. He came to the United States in 1952 on an immigration visa and interned at the French Hospital in New York City before coming to Princeton.

He is survived by his wife, Beatrice, and his three-week-old son, Hans-Veli.

The 47-year-old library was established in 1909. Miss Agnes Miller was the first librarian in its original headquarters in the Miller Building on Witherspoon Street.

In December 1910, the library moved to its present location in the Balmbridge House at 158 Nassau Street. The present collection includes 25,884 books, 472 recordings, 29 framed rental pictures, approximately 3,500 mounted pictures and some 5,000 periodicals.

New RCA Camera at Conventions. The David Sarnoff Research Center of RCA located in Princeton, has developed a new miniature television camera and portable transmitter that will be employed at the political conventions this summer. The new device is described by RCA scientists as perhaps the most compact, complete system yet designed for picking up and transmitting television pictures.

The camera weighs only four pounds and includes a novel electronic view-finder that can be separated from the camera. Cameramen will be able to hold the camera over crowds and other obstacles and still be able to see the picture with the aid of the synchronized view-finder.

The transmitter may be strapped on a man's back and is capable of sending TV signals to a base station more than a mile away. It weighs only 15 pounds as compared to previous portable transmitters, which weighed approximately 50 pounds.

The camera and transmitter were designed by an RCA research team including L. E. Flory, J. M. Morgan, John Dilley, W. S. Eise, C. W. Gray and Lawrence Boyer. Dr. Vladimir K. Zworykin, honorary vice-president, headed the project.

Steel Contract Parley Is Set For Tomorrow

PITTSBURGH, July 22 (AP).—David J. McDonald, president of the United Steelworkers, agreed today to an industry proposal to resume contract talks on Tuesday in New York City in an effort to end the 22-day old strike.

A few hours before, McDonald had bitterly attacked the industry for its pricing policy. He said steel prices had risen out of all proportion to rises in costs.

SEE SAWDUST TRAIL'S END: Asked if they think the "big top" circus is a thing of the past, Mrs. Charles Petzold gave a definite "yes" answer and Leighton Anderson, an attendant at Kline's Esso Station, while not yet ready to toll the death knell, said he felt it was high time the circus moved from "big top" to "big annual." Both were ready with interesting answers to Town Topics' Question of the Week. For others, read below. (Alan Richards Photo)

Question of the Week

Question: Do you think the "big top" circus is a thing of the past?
Location: Downtown Princeton.

Mrs. Charles Petzold, 179 Longview Drive, Homemaker: Yes, I do. People nowadays much prefer to stay home and watch TV. I don't want to name any names, but the last time I started to go to the circus with my children we turned around and went home. It was crowded, it was muggy with no air-conditioning for relief, the ground was soggy underfoot and the whole place smelled bad. You got the immediate impression that it's strictly a money-making proposition today, and not the same spirit of bygone days — when you could meet your neighbors and have some real fun. Why, the kids aren't even crazy about the circus today!

Leighton Anderson, 3 Hamilton Avenue, Westminster Choir College student and gasoline station attendant: The circus still is a big appeal for children, but to keep it going, they'll have to make some major changes. They'll have to make the surroundings more aesthetic, more appealing and more coordinated in many respects. People can see most animals in a zoo or on television, so the circus men must offer something different — something more refined and stimulating. Also, they'll be obliged to play longer runs in larger cities and cut out many of the small stops.

Joseph Smith, 627 Princeton-Kingstone Road, seventh grader at Princeton Country Day School: People really don't go for the circus anymore. Little kids may think it's okay, but not the old folks. It's gotten too modern — like the switch from wagons to fancy trains. There are so many zoos. You can go there and see all the animals you want. And you can see all the circus acts you want on TV. Anyhow, people now are concerned with making deals with the enemy over atom bomb production and such things that they are too busy to think of the circus and such good times.

Nathaniel J. McKee, 106 North Stoneworth Drive, assistant administrator at Princeton Hospital: I don't think it is a thing of the past. Right now, it's very sad, but with a new generation, it will come back again. Its good days and bad days run in a cycle. The impact of TV is hurting now, but that will wear off and the circus will return. I certainly hope so. If it doesn't come back, kids and adults alike will miss something fine. I'm genuinely sorry to see it go at this time.

Don P. Whitney, 634 Stockton Street, student at Lafayette College: I don't believe the circus is a dead duck, but I think they'll have to stick in several big cities and give up touring around. If

When Ringling, Sinjin?

When John Ringling North placed his tents in mothballs this past week and announced that he considered the "big top" circus a thing of the glorious past, St. John Terrell, the Music Circus impresario, took immediate exception to the announcement and decided to get into the act. Sinjin issued a report that he will put his own "big top" circus on the road early next spring.

"Television and labor costs are not the enemies of circus entertainment," Mr. Terrell said. "They can become a very helpful friend." Attacking Mr. North's so-called "doom and gloom philosophy," Sinjin referred to human beings as "herd animals" who will always prefer to witness spectacles in concert with others, as they do in major sporting events, and wherever excitement and the element of thrill exist. Mr. Terrell's new circus, he declared, will change the emphasis — from the slow-moving giraffe show to a fast thrills-packed festival with clowns returning to their proper place, and stressing the old-time color and tradition with renewed emphasis on the appeal to children.

St. John Terrell starts a touring circus, it'll probably flop fast. It's a matter of simple economics these days. They can't draw enough people in the smaller cities to cover the terrifically increased expenses.

Norman Walter, Hightstown, tavern proprietor: As in so many other businesses, the cost of labor and general overhead has gone up much more rapidly than the return on the other side of the balance scale — in this case, the price of admission. Circuses can't afford to charge the public too much, not when their good entertainment is less expensive, so it's easy to see why they can't make ends meet. I wouldn't say the circus is a thing of the past, but, if it survives, it will be a new-looking circus — under a big roof instead of a big top.

Jon VanWambeek, 9 Russell Road, salesman at MacDonald's: I'm afraid it is. The only place to hold it now is in air-conditioned arenas, and that's not real circus. With Ringling out of the picture and all the smaller ones certainly will bow out. And so, if all the circus people think — they'll be a thing of the past. It's too bad — these circuses have always been more interesting than the indoor imitations. Anyhow, there's too much carnival and not enough circus in the circuses today.

ves, vinyl coated plastic or saran from 98c.

Older children with some manual dexterity will leap at a new toy called Skyline. It's a collection of little plastic pieces that look like screws, bolts and so forth. Assemble them according to direction and you have a skyscraper—or assemble them according to imagination and see what you get. There is a little kit for $1.98 and they go up from there, just like a skyscraper. Might be a good companion to an electric train set-up.

We leave this one to the last—It's a $3 baking pan that makes square angel-food cakes!

Elephant and Castle . . . is a famous old English Inn, and its emblem appears on a new old-fashioned glass that has come to the Town Shop (67 Palmer Square) from England. Each glass in this eight-glass set has a different inn sign.

We liked the one for the "Quiet Woman"—a female form with no head. There is the Royal Oak, Bull and Mouth, Angel and Glove, the Three Fools and so on. The glasses are apparently the same size as American ones but shaped differently, with a wider top, a sharply tapered body and a narrow base. The eight are $10.50.

Parchment invitations have an interesting water-mark design, and impish illustrations: a chubby toddler scrubbing herself invites you to a shower; two voluble chickens announce a hen party; a very young lass in her birthday suit invites you to a birthday party; a big gold-rimmed clock suggests that you "join us at the cocktail hour."

Forncetti sends from Italy a collection of ceramic ashtrays, many of them shaped like a rectangle that has suddenly begun to melt. One has painted butterflies on it from an old botanical book. Another has a black and white photograph of a Roman frieze.

Two gold duelling pistols face each other at two paces on a third ashtray. There is also a remarkably striking Greek key design, painted to give third dimension, and centered on the ashtray rather than used as a conventional border.

Summertime entertaining calls for a generous fruit or dessert bowl (finger bowl), if you've got quite a fist) in shell pink glass. It's translucent, and its outside has been dipped in what looks like pink sand. The inside is glass-smooth. A matching plate goes along.

Back to Italy for a fathomless copper casserole lined with tin. It's a deep vessel—almost five inches—covered with a tight lid that has a closed brass bud for a handle. Leaves in brass surround the bud. On each side there are brass handles with the same garland motif.

Stainless steel and teak have been combined in two Danish pitchers, one small, one slightly larger. They have broad square lips and are designed for melted butter, syrup, sauces or whatever. A round teak roaster accompanies each one. Teak and brushed steel appear again in a carving set and a six-piece place setting.

Want to gild the lily? Here's a gilt mirror, gold on wood, in a scroll design. The mirror itself is about 10 by 12 inches.

Football Outlook II. Two months from now, when the opening game of the 1956 football season (against Silesman - coached Rutgers) is only a few days away, Princeton's starting lineup may still not be completely settled. What's more, the 11 men who see action at the kickoff will undergo some further degree of juggling during the season, as various sophomores and reserves prove their right to a first-string assignment.

But plans for a nine-game schedule always start on paper, and as of today, you can get a look at the lineup, which the Tiger coaching staff feels would be its best bet off performances during the season. It is possible that the detailed viewing of game motion picture footage, which permits a player's complete conduct on the field to be screened forward (and, on occasion, literally backward), will result in a change or two before the squad reports to Blairtown on September 1. Guesses are, however, that the 11 men who have top billing now will still have the right to prove it when scrimmaging starts around Labor Day.

Understandably, the tentative lineup which Charlie Caldwell and his staff prepare always put the burden of proof on the sophomores. That is to say, no matter how brilliant a career they may have had as freshmen, they must show up as better than average or third on the depth chart until they can prove their ability with the varsity.

A year ago, for example, when John Sapoch was a sophomore, he began the three-week season at Blairtown as the fourth-string quarterback. That, at least, was his paper rating; being a tremendous blocker and a guy whose every motion shows a clear-cut love of football, Sapoch went to work so quickly that he had the starting assignment won before the team broke camp in the Kittatinny Mountains.

It could be that a member of this season's sophomore crop will follow suit.

At the outset of the 1955 season, Matt Davidson was encountered at the first Saturday football luncheon in Osborne Field House. "Have you got anything unusual this year, Matt?" he was asked. The soft-spoken freshman coach held up three fingers and added, "Back."

It was his way of saying that he had a promising "number three back," which, in the single wing system, is the fullback. Inasmuch as the top players on the varsity in this position, Dick Martin and Jack Kraus, were both seniors, the news had a pleasant sound to it.

His name is Fred Tiley, and the vital statistics indicate that he is 18 years old, 5-11 and weighs a solid 195. With the exception of Jack Weber, who helped begin Princeton's Big Three domination in the late '40s, he ranks as the biggest fullback to come here in nearly a decade. Caldwell actually doesn't favor the big bruisers, preferring a combination of hett, blocking ability and speed, as witness the fact that he got a great deal of topflight play out of Jack Davidson, Homer Smith and Dick Martin, none of whom came close to the 200-lb. mark.

Tiley Got Two Against Yale. On a mild November afternoon last fall, Tiley personally salvaged what there was left of the freshman season as he scored both the touchdowns that gave the Class of 1959 a 13-7 victory over Yale. The Tiger cubs were no better than 2-4 on the year, and members of that team are not being counted on largely to fill the numerous gaps on the varsity left by graduation.

Traditionally, then, Tiley begins at the bottom, with both Lee Weber and Wayne Reagan, 1955 varsity reserves, ranking ahead of him. If he hits his potential quickly, it will not be for long.

Despite the loss of nearly half the players who were ranked three deep at each position at the end of the last season, only eight sophomores are listed among the top three candidates for each berth in 1956. In addition to Tiley, three linemen have been given a pre-season nod by Caldwell as better than average prospects. Top man of this trio is Gene 1956 CAPTAIN: Mike Bowman, 220-lb. guard, will lead the Tigers this fall.

Forcione, a 6-3, 207-lb. graduate of Washington's Landon Prep School who is rated as a solid tackle prospect. He may not displace letterman Rusty Melges (6-1, 215 lbs.) but will see plenty of action in his first year on the varsity.

Guards Are Big. A pair of sophomore guards are also scheduled to fit into the scheme of things and if they do, the Princeton line will have considerably more bulk at these key defensive positions than they have in the past. The 17-2 lead that Princeton lost in the 1953 Yale game melted away in large degree because full-sized Eli backs kept hammering at 175-lb. Princeton guards.

Paul Warwick is 6-2 and 205, while Bob Rock is two inches shorter and five pounds heavier. —Continued on Page 37

Lost Ball

Remington "Spike" Ball, a letterman who came last toward the end of last season, particularly as a linebacker, in Charlie Caldwell's choice for center this season. But if football fans have a bit of difficulty spotting him as he bounces over for the center snap, it's because the guys on either side of him are kind of big in comparison.

Ball, a 19-year-old junior who came here from Exeter, is 5-9 and weighs 180. He's scheduled to be in the line with such operatives as Captain Mike Bowman, 220 lbs. and Dave Grubb, 196 lbs., both guards; Rusty Meiges, 215 lbs. and Earle Harder, 200 lbs., tackle.

Immediate reserves at the guard and tackle slots include sophomore Bob Rock, 210 lbs., Gene Forcione, a 207-lb. sophomore tackle, and letterman Bob Cascola, 210-lb. tackle. Even quarterback John Sapone, who will serve as a linebacker with Ball, outweighs him by 20 pounds.

Sports In Princeton

The latter is a rarity in this second post-war decade in that he already has three years of service under his belt and begins his sophomore year at the ripe age of 25. Rock (whose name will provide fodder for sportswriters if he comes into prominence) was a tackle on the 1951 freshman team and returned to the campus last fall but was ineligible for athletics until this year. In the Navy, he was an all-Ireland selection on his team at Guam.

Four other sophomores currently rate places in the depth chart, easily be heard from before the season ends. They are Charlie Krick, a 205-lb. guard; Ed Lasalle, tackle; Gene Locks, small-sized quarterback who stands 5-9 and weighs 170 but is being counted on to spell Sapone; and Alan Manler, 175-lb. ranking tailback on last year's freshman.

Some of these may not develop immediately, while others unmentioned in July will come along this year or next. Occasionally a year or even two on the jayvees makes a wakening good senior, as was the case with George Hawke, who played two seasons on the junior varsity and then turned into a standout guard on the unbeaten team of 1950.

Holdover lettermen, of whom there are four, and reserve line last season will be moved up to fill the four gaps in the line and the three big holes in the backfield left by the Class of 1955. Among the players who did not come in last year's particular prominence last season but who are being counted on for key contributions in 1956 are Dave Grubb, 196-lb. guard; Spike Ball, 180-lb. center; Bob Kent, 6-3, 190-lb. end; Bill Danforth, 6-1, 187-lb. wingback; and Tom Morris, 6-1, 17-lb. tailback.

The latter two players, more than any other pair of candidates for the team, hold much of the answer to success of the coming season. Morris, who showed well in the Princeton and Yale games but still needs a great deal of experience, must take up where both Sid Finch and Royce Flippin left off at tailback. Danforth, overshadowed last season by the fine year that Bill Agnew put in, is the pick for the important wingback slot.

Next week's article, the third and last in the present series, will report on the actual lineup at each of the 11 positions as it stands before the coaches get a look at the material on the practice field.

Season Ends at Camp Tamarack. Camp Tamarack, Girl Scout day camp located near Kingston, has ended its two-week season after serving 60 girls between the ages of 7 and 12. The camp, directed by Mrs. Brandon Boyd, concentrated on outdoor cooking this year.

Ten girls completed requirements for their Girl Scout first aid badge, which they received at the closing of camp. Nurses who helped at the camp were Mrs. Birchall Kimble, Mrs. L. W. Hicks, Mrs. Ray Burbridge, Mrs. Thomas Brophy, Mrs. Bert Stevens and Mrs. Justus T. Vollbrecht.

Mrs. M. H. Greenblatt directed the singing program, assisted by Mrs. John Thompson. A song of gypsy life, written especially by Mrs. Thompson, was sung at the final program.

Serving as unit leaders were Mrs. Charles Salitz, Mrs. Charles Hickerson and Miss Beverly Stewart. Assistant unit leaders and aides were Misses Judy Vollbrecht, Sally Sikes, Grace Morton, Suzy Mitchell, Betsy Carter, Barbara Quarles and Carol Anderson.

Mrs. Marjorie Mason of Ridgewood last week became the first woman golfer ever to break 70 on the Springdale Course when she toured the 18-hole layout in a par-shattering 69. Her feat lowered by four strokes the record set earlier this summer by Mrs. James Whelan of Princeton, the club's woman champion who was eliminated in the tournament's semi-final round.

Mrs. Mason, who went on to win the Women's Garden State championship with a 1 up, 36-hole verdict over Miss Judy Frank of Alderbrook, was particularly sharp with her putter, accounting for five birdies who were eliminated. The latter was achieved on the 401-yard dog-leg fourth hole, which has a woman's edge.

From the women's tees, the course distance is 5,552 yards, about 400 yards shorter than the course for men. Johnny Kinder, Plainfield pro, holds the men's record with a 64, shot in 1941. Mrs. Mason's card:

Social Club New on Top. Paced by the four-hit pitching of the veteran Huck McGreeby and the solid bat work of Bucky Cupples, Nassau Social Club replaced Drake's Plumbing and Heating Tuesday night as the leader in the Community Softball League. NSC wrapped up a 4-2 triumph with the knowledge that victory next week will mean the league title.

McGreeby allowed four hits, walked three and struck out one. Jack Petrone was his catcher. Losing pitcher Bill Bergen fanned seven and gave up only five hits but could not quell Cupples with runners aboard.

The Sportsmen's Club kept moving in the right direction as Harry Kahay weathered a rough first inning to turn back Fraze's with the aid of six scoreless rounds. He was the victim of a three-run outburst in the opening frame but stayed around to take home an 8-3 triumph. Tom Everett was the loser, finding four errors behind him troublesome.

The Sportsmen took a two-run lead in the top of the first, fell behind briefly and then tied the score in the third. Two in the fifth and three more in the eighth sealed the outcome.

Bob Cook collected three for four and Joe Tolo was two for two for the Sportsmen. Jack O'Neill and Jack Petty each went two for three for Fraze's.

Was Wine Men's Singles. Unended Irwin Vas won the Red Feather Men's Singles Championship last week by defeating Ed Breitbach 8-6, 6-3. Vas was down 1-5 in the first set when his net gave him a break to click.

He rallied to knot the score at 6-5 and went on to win the title handsly. Vas scored upset victories over Don Mathey and Dr. H. Y. Taylor, second and third respectively, en route to the championship.

It was an unusual tournament in that no seeded player reached the final round. Only Dr. Tyler

West Windsor Girls Lead. The league-leading West Windsor team gave a bye last week in the Girls' Softball League. In the two games played, Gregory Bulck turned back Montgomery Township, 17-9, and ASCOP defeated Educational Testing Service, 9-5.

The standings:

Bowers Perk Up. The cellar-dwelling Bowers team in the junior baseball league perked up this week, as it won its first game and came close to upsetting the league-leading Matthews club. With Ricky Hurford making his debut on the mound Bowers turned back the Lions Club, 6-2.

Against Matthews, Bowers trailed 4-0 into the last half of the final inning, but the rejuvenated Bowers nine rallied for three runs to come close to pulling the game out. In the only other league tilt, Nassau City defeated the Lions Club.

Matthews maintains an undefeated record to lead the league with a 4-0 mark. Nassau Oil follows with a 3-2 mark, while the Lions and Bowers are 1-3 and 1-4, respectively.

The boys will travel to the home of the Dodgers via a chartered bus with reservations due by next Wednesday (tel. 3630).

The YMCA also announced that its tennis clinic is drawing to a close. Ken Wilson is providing instruction for the group with the assistance of Don Mathey and Joe Bachelder.

That estate has a Northeast pool as standard equipment.

The novel surprise about Northeast's luxurious swimming pools is that they are economy-priced. The middle-income homeowner can enjoy the pleasure and prestige of owning his own modern pool for under $2,000. For less than the cost of a new car, you can have private swimming comfort within steps of your back door. Northeast models come in several smart designs. Isn't it possible to give credit to those who are serving as ground observers, and to state the need for wider participation, without throwing bricks wholesale at the Mayor and Council, the Township Committee, the Defense Council, and the 15,000 (more or less) Princetonians who are not now acting as plane-spotters?

Speaking as one of the seven-Day Captains who are not "seeking relief from their jobs," I should say that the GOC has not been properly sold to Princeton people. Too much has been written about "heroic tasks," "unsung heroes," and "those brave few who are carrying on." (to quote from Mr. Alexander.)

Most Princetonians must think of us plane-spotters as either martyrs or suckers—depending on the point of view. And it is understandably hard to recruit many volunteers to be suckers or martyrs.

I grant—in fact, I agree completely with Mr. Alexander—that the Ground Observer Corps is a necessary part of our national defense and that it is the duty of civilians (not soldiers) to do this job.

People have not been sufficiently told, however, that plane-spotting is also a very easy job and most of the time a relaxing and pleasant job. A man who regularly works one of the early-morning shifts (between midnight and 6 a.m.) does so every third week, which means that he puts in only 34 hours—about four 8-hour days—in a whole year. And much can be said about the pleasures of that two-hour vacation from the maddening crowd; a neglected salt which might change the grim picture too many people imagine of a desolate, freezing (or scorching) two-hour martyrdom which is not for them, thank you.

Instead of damning and scolding the public, let's enlighten them. And when enough people have volunteered so that a rotating system of limited service can be introduced, with nobody having to serve more than a given length of time, then the load will be truly shared, and the biggest reason for refusing to join the GOC will have been removed.

HERBERT MCANENY
67 Grover Avenue

Editor's Note: In further response to last week's letter, the Ground Observer Corps has listed the two-hour shifts when additional volunteers are particularly needed. The GOC reports that "regular assignments call for two hours each week during the day and evening, or two hours every third week during the night. When a spotter cannot go on duty because of sickness or any other reason, the 'day captain' undertakes to find a substitute."

Princetonians able to fit in at any of the following hours, or to volunteer, as a substitute, are asked to call John W. French (1-5489): Monday, 4-6 a.m. (every third week), 10-12 a.m. and 2-4 p.m.; Tuesday, 12-2 a.m., and 4-6 a.m. (every third week); Wednesday, 2-4 a.m. (every third week) and 8-10 a.m.; Friday, 2-4 a.m. (every third week); Saturday, 12 noon-2 p.m. (every second week); 2-4 p.m.; 4-6 p.m. and 10-12 p.m. (every second week.)

The New Jersey Poll IKE'S HEALTH FORESEEN AS BIG CAMPAIGN ISSUE BY ALL, POLL INDICATES

A solid majority of the state's adult citizens—three out of every five—is of the opinion that President Eisenhower's health will be one of the important issues in this year's election campaigning. One out of every three think Ike's health will not.

These were the findings when the New Jersey Poll recently asked a representative cross-section of the state's voters:

"Do you think President Eisenhower's health will be one of the important issues in the 1956 election campaign or not?"

Will be important 62%
Will not be important 33%

No opinion 5%

Highlight of today's survey findings is that Independents across the state—those who consider themselves neither Republicans nor Democrats—by a margin of better than two to one are of the opinion that President Eisenhower's health will be an important issue in the coming campaign.

Will be important 64%
Will not be important 30%

No opinion 6%

Among crack and file democrats, those who believe that Ike's health will be an important issue in the campaigning this year outnumber by a margin of better than two and a half to one those who don't think it will.

Will be important 67%
Will not be important 26%

No opinion 7%

Worthy of particular note, too, is that the majority opinion among the state's Republican Party members interviewed in today's survey is that the President's health will be an important issue in this year's Presidential campaigning.

Still a Farmer's County. While Mercer County is an expanding industrial center, statistics show that it has continued to maintain its position as a major farming community. Mercer County farms raise significant quantities of the crops produced in New Jersey with only two exceptions, cranberries and blueberries.

Almost 55% of the land in Mercer has been classified as farmland. There are 1,036 commercial farms and the number of part-time farms is increasing rapidly.

Most of Mercer's farms are operated by the owners themselves. Only 10% are operated by tenants.

Economics returns to farmers as split fairly evenly between livestock and its products and crops. Sale of crops net an income of nearly $4,000,000, while revenue from livestock and products total just under $5,000,000. The $5,000,000 represents an equal amount from dairy and poultry products.

Another interesting statistic shows that the average Mercer County farm is 77 acres in size. The average value of farm land and buildings has doubled in the last five years and is now reported as $22,495.

Drive Against Tuberculosis. Approximately 10 new cases of tuberculosis were discovered each year in New Jersey, according to a statement issued by the Princeton Tuberculosis League. The League stressed continued prevalence of the disease as it reaffirmed its goal of "locating every case of tuberculosis in this community."

"Tuberculosis is preventable; it can be cured, but we must first be aware of it and then all join forces to work for the day when tuberculosis will no longer menace the citizens of our state," the League emphasized. "Throughout the years, the tuberculosis associations in this state have made fine progress toward our ultimate goal of complete control."

The League pointed out that "as long as even one tuberculosis case remains undetected in New Jersey, the health of every person is jeopardized." The statement made it clear that eradication of tuberculosis will aid those who are not personally affected, since it will end rising taxes required for the necessary medical facilities.

*LOSE A POUND A DAY...

FOR 14 DAYS

WITHOUT SUFFERING HUNGER
PANGS OR LOSS OF ENERGY!

There are really only two basic reasons for reducing . . . we need to reduce because overweight is dangerous or there is a desire to reduce so that we may look better, feel better, be more fit.

However, to reduce we must eat less (fewer calories) and when we do eat less we may feel the uncomfortable, almost painful pangs of hunger. We may also become nervous and irritable because of the lack of sufficient vitamins and minerals in a restricted diet. Now, with Kessamin Tablets, Formula #14, and the Kessamin Reducing Plan this can never happen!

With the Kessamin
reducing plan
the only thing you can lose is weight!

SEE WHAT THE KESSAMIN REDUCING PLAN OFFERS!

1. A reducing diet (The Kessamin Booklet) prepared by a physician and a dietitian to give best possible diet.
2. Vitamins to prevent deficiencies which cause nervousness, irritability and the tired, worn-out feeling. Also supplemental minerals and iron to help prevent nutritional anemia.
3. Vitamins plus the bulk, Carboxy Methylcellulose, help normal intestinal elimination.
4. The "hunger control factor," Carboxy Methylcellulose, so reduce hunger if taken according to directions.

See your druggist. The complete Kessamin Reducing Plan is in every package of Kessamin Tablets, Formula #14.
